How can i start it? this is the code: // Adobe AIR 3.5.0.1894 Adobe Acrobat XI Pro 11.0.0.1312 A: There is a way to do that: You have to hide the View Document Properties dialog from a button. You must create an ActionListener for the button, and then you just need to call the hide command on the document. Create an ActionListener: import flash.events.Event; var btn: Button; btn = new Button(); btn.width = 100; btn.height = 100; btn.label = "Document"; btn.id = "mybutton"; btn.addEventListener(Event.SELECT, btnSelectedHandler); ... private function btnSelectedHandler(e:Event):void { var doc:Document = e.currentTarget as Document; if (doc.hideViewPropertiesDialog) { doc.hideViewPropertiesDialog(); } } Call the function: By clicking the button you can trigger the function. Or you can create the button in the Actions panel, and then just add the function when you are creating the button. Here is an example: 82157476af
